COLLEGE ADMISSIONS CHECKLIST

Remember: Keep copies of everything. If you're sending applications or other important documents by mail, you might want to spend a little extra money and send them return receipt requested. This will let you know when the school received the documents. Some of the items on this list might not apply to every school. For example, few public colleges require an entrance essay; many private colleges do. You should check to make sure that people writing recommendations or sending transcripts do so by the deadline. And you shouldn't wait until the deadline to send something in — send it in early just in case something goes wrong.

FINANCIAL AID CHECKLIST

Remember: Keep copies of everything. When you file your FAFSA online at www.fafsa.ed.gov, be sure to print out a hard copy for your records. If you're applying for scholarships and grants administered by the school that require a separate application, you should send the application return receipt requested. And, as always, don't wait until the last minute — things can go wrong. Computers crash, and mail occasionally gets lost. If you file early and keep track of what you've been doing, you have time to fix things.

possible after January 1.

	August/September		If you went Early Decision and were accepted,
	Ask colleges you're interested in to send you admissions information.		withdraw your applications from other schools.
			February/March
	If you're applying for Early Decision, start filling out the forms to meet the college's deadline.		Submit midyear grades if the colleges you've applied to require them.
	If you haven't taken the ACT/SAT or if you think you can do better, register. See page 10 for dates.		Send in any deposits that are required.
٥	Get with your counselor to find out about the financial aid sources available to you. Use Affording Higher Education , a publication of the Alabama Student Loan Program. Copies are sent to high school counselors, high school libraries and public libraries.		If you've been accepted by more than one college but haven't heard from your first choice, contact that school about a decision before making any nonrefundable deposits to other schools.
			If you've decided which school you want to attend, notify that college of your decision. Let any other colleges that have accepted you know about your
	October/November		decision.
	Meet with college admissions representatives at college fairs or when they visit your school.		April/May
	Attend a financial aid seminar if your school offers one. Read pages 24–25 about scams first.		Follow up on your financial aid package. See pages 39–40 for information about comparing packages.
	If you haven't picked a college yet, narrow your list by visiting schools and talking with students. Discuss it with your parents too.		If you're going to need student loans, compare the benefits offered by the various lenders your college uses.

Instructions: If you're considering more than three schools, photocopy this page before proceeding. Select the schools for evaluation and write their names on the slanted lines. Answer the questions for each school. (If the answer is "yes," mark a " 🗸 " in the column. If the answer is "no," make an "X" in the column.) What are your findings?

SCHOOL EVALUATION
Does the school offer the educational program you want?
If you're admitted to the school, are you also admitted into the educational program you want?
Is the school accredited by an agency accepted by the U.S. Department of Education (e.g., Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Council on Occupational Education, Accrediting Commission of Career Schools and Colleges of Technology, National Accrediting Commission of Cosmetology Arts and Sciences, Association for Biblical Higher Education)?
Is the school licensed or approved by the appropriate state government agency (e.g., Alabama Commission on Higher Education, Department of Postsecondary Education, Alabama State Department of Education, Alabama Board of Cosmetology, Alabama Board of Funeral Service)?
Is the school approved for federal and state financial aid programs?
Does the school have the resources to provide you the education you need to be successful in the work force? Look for up-to-date training devices, developmental course work and/or tutorial assistance, general education courses (e.g., English and math), educational qualifications of the faculty, and library holdings and resources related to your field of study.
Will completion of the educational program qualify you for a job? An exam and/or apprenticeship may also be required. If a licensing examination is required for employment in your career field (e.g., nursing, cosmetology, or law), do a high percentage of the school's graduates pass the exam?
Does the school have a job placement program? Is it free? Are a high percentage of graduates placed in jobs? Recent graduates and potential employers can help you answer these questions. A good school will give you a list of contacts.
Does the typical starting salary for a new graduate of the school's educational program compare favorably with that of graduates from the same educational program at other schools? Does it meet with your expectation? If the school provides such data, ask to see detailed statistics substantiating the school's claim.
Does the enrollment contract (if required) clearly indicate the complete cost of your course of study? Are all necessities (books, room and board, transportation, tools, uniforms, etc.) included in the cost? Schools must make printed cost-of-education information readily available to prospective students upon request.
Does the enrollment contract contain language to protect you if the school closes or discontinues your program? Call the Better Business Bureau in the area to find out if the school has had problems.
Does the school have a printed refund policy? Good schools have a reasonable refund arrangement for students who withdraw from school.
Does the school have a low withdrawal rate? A high rate may be a warning sign.
Will credits earned at one school be acceptable for transfer to another? If you plan to enter one school but transfer to another school, will your credits transfer?
Does the school have a low student loan default rate? Call the U.S. Department of Education at (800) 433-3243 to check a school's default rate. A high default rate may be a warning sign.
